Zusammenfassung

As Chief Product Officer of ohhh! foundation I oversee our whole product portfolio and I am leading our Support & Safety business Divisions personally. I am in charge of its development, its growth and our organisations overall product strategy. I am looking at the future of our products: what extra value it will bring to customers, how it will differ from competitors, and how it will help our organisation to reach our business objectives. Together with my colleagues it is my responsibility to ensure that all our products are aligned with the organisations culture and business goals.
